A 1972 graduate of Sac State, Butch has spent his entire career in the liquid side of public works. After 2 years with a private sector consultant, he joined Sacramento County Public Works as an assistant engineer and spent the next 25 years working his way out of the sewers and into clean water. In 1991, as a deputy director of public works, he helped form the City-County office of Water Planning, which gave birth to the Sacramento Water Forum. In 1993, he was appointed the Executive Director of Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency, SAFCA. SAFCA, he says, was a unique combination of individuals that was very effective as a team. He retired in 2004 and was appointed to the California State Reclamation Board in September 2006.

He is also a member of the Central Valley Flood Control Association, a Trustee for the Sacramento River Watershed Program, and does some consulting work outside the Central Valley.
